THEME OF THE MONTH: "The Chakana"

Carolina Rojas, Jamii's lead artist for April cycle, is extending an invitation to the community to explore the Chakana, an ancestral symbol that embodies the profound cosmovision of the Andean peoples. The Chakana represents the connection between the spiritual, earthly, and inner levels, as well as our relationship to nature, the cycles of life, and our community.

This is an invitation to reinterpret the meaning of the Chakana, connecting its ancient wisdom with our modern experiences.

Lead Artist: CAROLINA ROJAS

Carolina Rojas, a dancer, choreographer, and arts administrator, earned a Dance Interpretation degree from Las Americas University in Santiago de Chile. In 2012, she co-founded 'Danza Independiente Antofagasta,' aiming to expand dance horizons in her hometown. Carolina initiated the 'Interpreters in Dance School' project in 2013, providing free training to aspiring dancers, fostering community growth and education. Since moving to Canada in 2017, she has expanded her repertoire, contributed to the Dance Migration Company, and volunteered with Chilean associations, sharing her cultural heritage and commitment to community empowerment. Carolina's vision prioritizes inclusivity and accessibility, particularly for Latin American communities in Toronto facilitating artist exchanges. Carolina is not only our Lead Artist for April at Jamii, she is also our Metcalf Intern, managing programs such as Belonging and Laini, excelling in arts management.
